

Status Problem Statement

Problem Statement:

- People need to find better ways to decide who will do what chores around the house and what the current status of the chores is. Currently, the lack of a system leads to unequal work distribution, a lack of proper communication, and missed responsibilities.

Who's experiencing the problem?

- Every big family household and even college students.

What is the problem?

- The problem is the need for a concrete and fair system for managing and assigning household chores.

Where does the problem present itself?

- The problem lies within many types of households, like shared living spaces or overworked households.

Why does it matter?

- This matters because having a system like this can allow harmony and fairness in the family.
